

Directors and Crew call for Script Happens 2018

We need three directors for this year's plays, and assistant director/stage managers and crew as well. This year's Script Happens showcase which will run at BMO Studio Theatre – June 13-16th, 2018. This year's final selections are:

Jukie & Her Dad, by Jamie Bradley

While exploring the often funny but always touching dynamic between Jukie and her dad, the play deftly takes the audience on a poignant journey into the mind of a young woman as she struggles to cope with events in her past.

The Spider in the Tub by Bet O'Toole

Hold on to your yoga pants as Harriet and Orson confront the challenges of getting older by getting “fit and fearless”. This delightful comedy provides a fun and insightful look at their relationship as it is tested by the realities of aging.

Everybody Dies in December by Nancy Kenny

Claire works in her family funeral business and loves it, taking the opportunity to talk to her clientele about her problems and observations. This play provides a thoughtful, sometimes humorous, often moving, portrayal of Claire's search for meaning and her place in life.

For those interested the plays are available for reading only (no reproducing in any form). To request a copy please contact Stephanie at:
